Stamp Forgery

Sir,-This is rather a belated reply to the question asked by your Philatelic contributor in his recent article, "what is a Sperati forgery?".

Signor Jean 'de Sperati was arrested by the French police just over a year ago at the request of a Swedish collector to whom he had sold a Swedish rarity for some 1,600,000 francs, and which proved to be an exceptionally good forgery, Sperati's own handlwork! During the investigations it turned out that he was already waiting trial on similar cases brought against him by French dealers. His work is very dangerous and he has fooled several experts who have passed his forgeries as authentic. His defence was rather amusing: he said he consittered it no "crime to copy minsterpleces, you can buy copies of all the pictures in the Louvre, and if anyone is guilible enough to buy them as originals then they should not buy pictures. That's all!"

Britain To Back India

London, September 9. Britain Intends to support the candidature of India for one of Government Offices, Schools, the three vacancies to be voted on here today.

Canada, Argentina and the Soviet Ukraine will retire as nonpermanent members. India, if elected, may be considered to replace. Canada, as in the past it has been the practice of the British Commonwealth to have a non-permanent member on the basis of representation by power groupings.

At the same time, the choice of India would be significant in giving representation to one of the new nations of Asia-Pakistan, India and Coylon-and as indicating the role that they can play in world affairs. At present the Council has only one Asiatic member-China-who is a permanent member of the Council, with the four other Big Powers—the United States, the Soviet Union, France and Britain. Election is by ballot and needs a two-third majority.

Britain, is believed to. secured the agreement of the United States and France to India's candidature. A Foreign Office spokesman refused today to comment on India's prospects on the grounds that the ballot is secret.-Reuter. TO RED LEADER BE TRIED

The wonderful story of the waterproof watch by Hans Wilsdorf *

THE WATERPROOF watch, joke of the watchmaking trade for many decades, is now a reality! Let me tell you how this was brought about. It all started in 1907 when travelling down Chespeide on top of a London bus, I first thought of giving my wristwatches the name of Rolox. Sitting there, I envisaged the day when the wrist-watch, then despised and laughed at, would be a timepiece of chronometer* accuracy enclosed in a completely watertight cause!

A fur-off ambition it then seemed. But, as our Roll of Honour shows, 1914 saw the birth of the first Rolex wristchronometer. Then, in 1927, came a day I shall never forget. Miss Mercedes Cheitze, a young London stenographer, made world news by swimming the English Channel wearing wrist-watch! After long years of patient experiment, I had patented the Rolex Oyster, first waterproof watch in the Today, well over a million men and women wear the Oyster. My patented waterproofing method, the self-sealing action of one metallic surface upon another, permanently protects the movement's accuracy against dist, moisture, and the effects of heat and cold.

Many of these watches are, in addition, officially certified wrist-chronometers, it being my policy to produce thees superb timepieces not-as is usually the case-only for special occasions, but in large numbers for sule. To date . . . over 100,000! That, you'll agree, is quite an achievement.

on these grounds: 1-Any move to allow Japan to resume direct Consular, economic or diplomatic relations with foreign countries ought to be ap-

The French more or less agree with the British view. In particular they are said to fear that re-creation of virtual Japanese independence before the completion of a peace treaty would es-

The British Foreign Office agrees with the view expressed by General MacArthur last week that Japan is ready for a formal peace treaty.

Russia has also urged pubilcly that work on a treaty should begin. The big powers are divided, though, on how a treaty should be written.

St. Corous, Switzerland, September 9. The atom bomb has been made obsolete by a biological product, seven ounces of which is enough to kill everyone in the world; Dr. Brock Chisholm, Canadian Director-General of the World Health Organisation, said here today.

He added: "The atom bomb is obsolete. Relatively speaking, it is child's play compared to biological weapons. A few fanatical distributors could destroy mankind by biological warfare. Manpower is irrelevant and heavy industry has nothing whatever to do with this form of war."

Washington, September 9. The State Department reported today that Russia is moving to ease the serious oil shortage in Communist China but thus far only a fraction of the petroleum needs of the Communist armies has been met.

RAF IN ACTION

London, September 9. Royal Air Force bombers attacked and destroyed a fort erected by an armed force from the Yemen inside the British territory of Western Aden Protectorate, "The Times" diplomatic correspondent reported today.

The report said the incident occurred on September 2 and one Yemenite was severely wounded. The cause of the incident was said to have been the erection of a Customs house by the Sharif of gad, three miles from the Yemen

Armed bands attacked the Customs house several times during August and the Imam of Yemen finally resorted to the classical strategy of building a fort about one mile West of Nagd Margad.

The Imam was informed that, unless the fort was withdrawn by September 2, action would by taken. The customary leaflet warnings were dropped, but no satisfactory reply received.

RAF bombers therefore totally destroyed the fort on September 2 and the Yemenites finally retired over to their own side of the border, "The Times"-saiti,-Unit-

Belgrade, September 9. Diplomatic observers here view with caution a report by the Italian Socialist leader, Petro Nenni, that Russia will not intervene in Yugoslavia at the point of the bayonet.

It should be emphasised in any analysis of Yugo-'slavia's unique and independent position, half way between the East and West, that prospects of peaceful settlement of the Soviet dispute should be regarded as warily as the possibility of a shooting war.

The Bulkim people look on Nennt's report as a trap to full Yugoslavia into a feeling of security while Tito, himself trained in the tough school of Communist tactics, is too wary to nibble at the bait. 🔒

Nennt, back from a visit to Moscow, is quoted as saying that Russin appeals to the Yugoslav workers to suffer a change of conscience and intends no mand intervention.

Nenni knows-as does everyone else-that one of the three major questions must be answered before the differences can be end-

. A ohunge in Russian policy towards Tito's demand for "equal rights" among 'partners in Communism. This seems unlikely while Russia continues to use the Cominform for her own internal | development.

Western Help

2. A change in Yugoslavia's leadership. This id unlikely so long as Tito remains in full control of the Army and internal security forces, and there, has been no major sign their, loyalty has been shaken.

3. Realisation by Russia that effective Western financial help? will consolidate Yugoslavia's independence and perhaps serve as in lesson of independence for King Abdullah of Transjordan other Communist states-parti-Commissioner, Sao Hon Hps, was the Northern Shan state town of

"All undesirable elements must be handed over to the Security Police and immediately shot or imaged. Houses are to be ruthlessly burned. Hostages are to be shot within 24 hours if those responsible for outrages do not surrender," the order was said to have added.

Counsel read a report from a Nazi intelligence major saying that in reprisal for guerilla activity at Supatoria, " 120 civitians

In his confusion be explained: "It's just like in an Arab family . - just like home," And from that charmingly simple and sincere moment the houses of Windsor and Hashem became, as they have reained, on intimate terms.

This friendship is the coping-Stone to King Abdullah's unwavering pro-Britishness during his last 35 kalcidoscopie years. As early as February 1914, when he was still little more than a hostage of the Tukish Sultan at Constantinople, he secretly contacted Lord Kitchener, British Agent in Cairo, to explore the possibilities of Anglo-Arab cooperation in ousting the Germans and Turks from the Arab lands of the Middle East. From this hold initiative sprang the famous Arab Revolt under Abdullah's brother, Feisnl, and T.E. Lawrence, who seizzed Jerusalem and Damascus from the interior desert while Allenby advanced along the Levantine coast.

Fersal became first King of Syrla, then of Hraq, and by an arrangement with Winston Churchill, who was Colonial Secretary in 1921. Abdullah became Emir of what was left of the old 'Syria'. namely the lands beyond the Jurdan (the biblical Monb).

In 1939 he was the only one of the Arab rulers to put himhintself unreservedly and immediately at the disposal of Britain and it was his famous Arab Hegion, which was created by the the fabulous Brigadier J.B. Glubb Pasha largely from the nomadic Bedouin, that played a leading, part in suppressing the dangerous pro-Nazi rebellion of Raschid Ali in Baghdad.

Thus the vital strategic area of the Middle East, with its oil, was saved from the German pincers advancing through the Caucasus and along North Africa.

UNO disputes about mandates precipitated Abdullah onto the throne. In co-operation with his friend Mr. (now Sir) Aire Kirkbride, the able British Minister at Ammun (the little limestone capital of Transjordan which started as Philadelphia in the Hellenistic Age) Abdullah was enabled by the Foreign Office to become King after only two months' negotiation. Thus Russian intrigues at UNO were britlimitly forestalled. But for Ahdulinh's statesmanship, product of a lifetime of hair-raising diplomacy, this coup could never have

To show your slip is no longer a cause for embarrassment and a rush for safety pins.

Far from it, for the current smart idea with slips is to show as much as possible....not just a cocquettish flounce of lace or frilling, peeping from beneath the hem of your frock, but a "visible" slip, veiled only by a filmy covering of chiffon, net, voile or organdie.

For worm autumn afternoons, we have the choice of very widely different fabrics, from the lightest transparent ones, to sleek silks, stiff shot taffetas and glossy satins. But, with the "filmies" it's the

Some of the new slips, however, break right away from the "lingerie" idea. One of the most striking I have seen is in apple green cyclet-hale cotton, a slim, narrow sheath, worn under a fullfinring redingote of cocon-brown organdle. The slip is shown alternatively with a short brown linen jacket, which turns it into the perfect ensemble for mornings in fown.

The Outline Of Beauty:

You Can't Have It Both Ways

By CLAUDIA

Fashions may be more natural, more adaptable, more comfortable and easy to wear than for centuries....but they cannot be all these things without being, at the same, time, more revealing, and without setting up a much higher standard of natural outline.

We just can't have it both ways. Figures must be either fenced in, however uncomfortably, to some arbitrary silhouette of fashion; or they must be cultivated and cared for so that they need no more than the light support of modern foundation garments.

their moulded bodices and low ful and expert fitting, to give firm necks, with anything approaching support without undue constricsuccess, a nest outline from bust to waist is quite exential. to bust, waist and hips, is a most the free movement of waist and important factor-of good grooming | diaphragm. for they are truly the foundation of all. Without even the lightest of brassieres and girdles, even the best proportioned figure cannot give the sleek, smooth contour required by close-fitting gowns.

The golden rule when buying foundation garments is to buy the best you can afford, but nover to buy anything without trying on and studying the outline from all angles. This rule applies particuarly aptly to the strapless bra, the latest of foundation garments, When it's good it can be very, very good, but when it's not, it should be avoided.

Correct shape; correct fit and, above all, correct size. Never, never buy a size too small. A good garment in your correct size will streamline the contours, while a smaller one will merely squeeze the flesh into unsightly little bulges in all the wrong places.

Elastic Belt

For the normal figure, a light bra, with slight, but never exaggerated uplift, will give a clean. Jrm bne and help to slenderise the dlaphragm. A light clastic belt will neaten the waist and smooth the hipline. Heavier garments are only necessary for . he same rules apply.

A first class basic exercise for -diaphraem and waistline is the "tick-tock." Stand with the feet well aport. left arm raised above the head. Then bend to the right as far as possible; reaching towards the floor with the right hand. Swing the left hand over the body, forming an arch. Count two, then straighten. Reverse arms position and repeat to the left side. When you get the timing, you get the one, two....tick, tock.

Bosom exercises are usually described as "Normalising" because the same exercises are advised for both the overweight, the underweight and the normal. They strengthen and develop the museles and at the same time, help to reduce surplus fat.

Most effective of all is the "push and pull". Raise the arms to shoulder level, each hand grasping the opposite wrist. Now push towards opposite elbows....relaxpull hard, as if to pull apart the heavier figure, but exactlyrelax and repeat 12 times at least.

'A thing of beauty is a joy forever."

We don't really know what the celebrated poet, Keats, had in his mind when he wrote the above line, but surely it is applicable to a woman as much, even more, as to anything else, for it cannot be denied we admire a beautiful woman even more than the moon, the stars, the sunset, the rainbow and all such things that can be called beautiful.

Discoveries Of Cricket

Malik Minister of Works and Although England failed to win a single match against New Zealand in the Tests, the result of the whole season's play cannot be regarded as disappointing, especially when so many youngsters of promise were discovered.

The discovery of Trevor Bailey and Brian Close is definitely something to gladden the hearts of all cricket-fans. Trevor Bailey has proved to be more than just an excellent all-rounder, but is clearly one who can always rise to an occasion, as results in the Tests show.
